What is Prometheus about? The film tells the story of the crew of a spaceship, bound for a distant planet, who find themselves caught in a battle between factions of an advanced race. The failed colonization has prompted one side to send alarm signals. The alarm signals are received by the Earth's systems and transponded through space to their local ship, which reroutes it back to the system where the colonized planet exists. This following transmission triggers an automated defense system that destroys both ships before they can escape into deep space.

It is shown that there are dangers within this society that are not disclosed to its citizens or its visitors. David is shown to be a robotic human-like creature, with the ability to change his appearance. He is able to perfectly imitate humans. He also has the ability to control other robots remotely, and he has knowledge of various advanced technologies including advanced medical procedures and advanced weaponry. The official Prometheus synopsis released by Fox Studios is: "Ridley Scott returns to the genre he helped define, creating an original science fiction epic set in the most dangerous corners of the universe. The film follows a team of explorers who find a structure on a distant world that appears to be man-made. They soon realize the true nature of the object and its possible threat to all life. Based on characters and situations created by Dan O'Bannon and Ronald Shusett, PROMETHEUS stars Michael Fassbender, Idris Elba, Charlize Theron, Noomi Rapace, Guy Pearce, Logan Marshall-Green and Sean Bean."

According to a blog entry from January 2009 – a brief overview of what is going on with the project – Ridley Scott is "still writing the script. We're deep into pre-production now." In a July 2009 blog entry – less than two months before filming began – it says "We're currently filming 'Prometheus', an Aliens prequel set in space. Writer/director Ridley Scott has assembled an amazing cast, crew and production team to make the film look amazing. Filming is expected to finish in October 2009. Then it will be off to the visual effects houses who will add the finishing touches (and all the Alien bits) before we release in December." On October 15, 2009, Michael Fassbender was quoted as saying "Prometheus is set in the late 21st century and early 22nd century, so it precedes Aliens by several decades. It's about a spaceship called Prometheus (the Greek god known for his wily ways) heading towards a distant star system with scientists aboard seeking answers, not only about themselves but about mankind's possible origins. They receive a transmission of unknown origin and there's a conflict that ensues on board. That's ultimately what the film is about." On October 15, 2009, David Thewlis said "I play David 8 in the film. Supposedly he's an android but he's made up in human form. He has this ability where he can be anyone. At one point, in his private quarters he transforms into someone who looks like an engineer when they are off-duty so it's quite tricky to portray." On October 17, 2009, Charlize Theron was quoted as saying "Prometheus is basically about what Prometheus were looking for at the beginning of Alien..."
